The County Administrator's Annual Report recognizes some of the true difference makers in our organization of 1,900 public servants who perform work for this community each day of the year.

Manatee County Board of County Commissioners

2019 A YEAR OF CHANGE

When our longtime County Administrator and Deputy County Administrator retired last year, they took with them a combined 90 years of public service! Following in their footsteps is a big job, but it's been an exciting year tackling that challenge, especially with two new Deputy County Administrators by my side: John Osborne, the County’s longtime Planning Official, and Karen Stewart, our former Economic Development Official.

Together we’ve introduced a new Results First approach within Manatee County Government, encouraging staff to think critically about their desired outcomes, to set milestones and targets and to measure benchmarks. Using this approach, I created a strategic plan for my first year encompassing 10 Results First Initiatives.

We’ve continued to move at a fast pace and accomplished a great deal in 2019, despite so many new faces among our leadership team. That success stems from clear and meaningful direction from County Commissioners, strong leadership from the County Administrator’s Office and the buy-in from our tight-knit team of Department Directors and employees.

Together we will continue to work in 2020 toward Results First goals with a work ethic infused with Accountability, Civility and Ethics.

Browsing this report, you’ll see icons denoting achievements that align with each of these initiatives.
Our local economy has reached one of its healthiest marks in memory, with local unemployment near 3 percent in 2019, tourism numbers breaking records and new home construction and improvement projects surging. Our Building and Development Services Department (BADS) worked with the private sector to review and evaluate 44 subdivision plats, a 37 percent increase over the prior year. Residential building permits last year rose 3 percent and commercial permits were up by 13 percent over 2018. The Building and Development Services Department is, quite simply, busier than at any other point in history. To respond to the unprecedented customer demand, County Commissioners allocated Building Department revenues to pay for four new positions.

Under Director John Barnott last year team BADS continued to work in innovative new ways to avoid permitting delays. Director Barnott, along with Building Official CJ Dupre, worked with state officials to create a unique new process to expedite inspections reviews for air conditioner permits. Construction Review and Inspections Manager Pat Wenzel then coordinated with our IT team to implement the state’s first video inspection process. Now air conditioning contractors can upload video of their installation projects to a secure server where Manatee County inspectors review for completeness. Video inspections has the potential to alter the landscape for many of our residential and commercial permitting processes, saving time and money for both the County and local contractors.

FLOOD MAP CHANGES
Manatee County residents rely on the BADS Floodplain Management group to access accurate federal data to make decisions on flood insurance. Last year Floodplain Management Manager Sandy Tudor organized a massive outreach campaign to educate 30,000 Manatee County homeowners about new flood zone maps being drafted by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. That information is critical for anyone living near the coast or local water bodies, since shorelines have changed and so much new development has arrived over the past 30 years.

ONLINE SERVICES
The Building Department issued an incredible 22,835 building permits and reviewed 1,152 planning applications. Much of that work was done more quickly and efficiently during our first full year of an Online Services portal that allows customers to do business with the Building Department without ever having to visit County offices. Air conditioner change out permits are Manatee County’s most common permit requests. Our Building Department issued nearly 7,000 of them in 2019!
Our incredible environment, the sports tourism industry and the “Real Authentic Florida” feel of Manatee County continued to attract record numbers of visitors last year. An estimated 755,800 people visited Manatee County last year, up 4 percent from 2018. Those visitors made a total economic impact of more than $1 billion last year and tourism revenues were up nearly 8 percent over 2018. Those record numbers drove new funding with which to invest in our most treasured amenities. Last year the County Commission and Tourism Development Council approved funding for repairs to the historic Anna Maria Island City Pier which had been closed since 2017 after being damaged by Hurricane Irma. The new pier walkway and T-end deck area are expected to open in 2020. A strong tourism industry relies on strong partnerships with hoteliers, national marketing agencies, sporting leagues and other government partners. In 2018 and 2019, Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB) Director Elliott Falcione partnered with the Sarasota Bradenton International Airport to add three new airlines, 33 new routes, and 27 new destinations. Passenger traffic has been increasing at the Sarasota Bradenton International Airport for 21 straight months. Those new destinations will generate trips from visitors from new areas, further cementing our area’s reputation as a premier tourist destination across the United States and beyond. Recent customer satisfaction surveys show that nearly 98 percent of visitors give our area high marks as a vacation destination. 94 percent of visitors plan to return. Put simply, visitors love coming to our area. Convention and Visitors Bureau

SPORTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Our CVB staff worked with IMG Academy to host the 2019 World’s Strongest Man competition during the summer of 2019, putting our area on display for a worldwide audience. The Strongest Man competition was one of the 105 sporting events during fiscal year 2018-19, including gymnastics, tennis, golf and rowing. In 2019 Manatee County was awarded the 2021 Under 18 World Baseball Championship. Sporting events bring competitors and their fans to our area, generating tourism and sales tax dollars that are reinvested in making Manatee County an incredible place to visit, play and call home.

LOOKING AHEAD

2020 holds even more promise for the tourism industry in Manatee County. Over the next year we’ll see work on a new 252-room Sheraton hotel next to the Bradenton Area Convention Center. The hotel will have a resort-style pool, rooftop lounge, roughly 8,000-square-foot ballroom and other meeting space to complement our Convention Center.
Emerson Point Preserve offers a network of hiking and kayak trails to experience a wide variety of coastal Florida wildlife and habitats.
In a local government of 1,900 employees who serve 400,000 residents, change is inevitable. Change among the County’s top ranks, though, is unusual. That change highlighted a year of transition unlike any other in recent history at Manatee County Government. Four of our 12 Department Directors retired or transitioned to different organizations over the past 14 months. Last December, our longtime County Administrator and Deputy County Administrator announced their retirement. Shortly thereafter, County Commissioners appointed longtime County employee Cheri Coryea as acting County Administrator.

Until Cheri Coryea was appointed as County Administrator, the position of County Administrator had not been filled for over a year. With Cheri Coryea at the helm, the County has continued to make significant progress in the face of employee turnover. The County has accomplished much despite turnover at the highest ranks. County Commissioners in May unanimously approved the County’s $1.5 billion net budget, which includes new projects and investments that are designed to deliver positive results.

The budget incorporates a new Payscale compensation software that will help us offer more competitive salaries compared to nearby public sector employers. Salaries for our lowest wage earners were increased to $12 hourly.

In the new budget, the County has set aside a new $6.5 million Disaster Recovery Reserve to help rebuild our community in partnership with FEMA in the wake of a natural disaster or other community emergencies.

SERVICE INVESTMENTS

One of the biggest early successes was having County Commissioners unanimously adopt a new annual budget that had the full support of our five Constitutional officers. The budget is full of Results First-based commitments. Many of the new projects and investments in the County Commission’s 2020 $1.5 billion net budget are driven by their strong potential to deliver positive results:

- Six new paramedics will complete a results-driven transition from 24-hour shifts to 12-hour shifts, improving emergency response times during peak hours.
- A new 3-1-1 call center is launching in early 2020 to replace 12 separate request lines. The new one-stop call center will resolve most citizen inquiries and requests.
- A new $6.5 million Disaster Recovery Reserve was set aside to help rebuild our community in partnership with FEMA in the wake of a natural disaster or other community emergencies.

Financial Management

AT A GLANCE: 2019 ANNUAL BUDGET

DEPARTMENTS
Financial Management

A primary responsibility of any local government is the responsible and transparent oversight of public finances. To that end, Manatee County’s Financial Management Department (FMD) is second to none. In 2019 Financial Management Director Jan Brewer and Budget Manager Sheila Ballesteros worked closely with the County Administrator’s Office to guide County Commissioners and the public through a months-long, zero-based budgeting process. That process culminated in September of 2018 when the Board adopted its $737 million net balanced budget and a five-year $1.5 billion Capital Improvement Plan (CIP).

That budget continued the County Commission’s longstanding commitment to public safety by adding 12 new deputies to the Sheriff’s Office budget and $225,000 for enhanced security at our public parks. That budget also included funding to begin high profile community projects such as the Lincoln Pool, long-awaited sidewalk and drainage improvements for Rubonia and enhancements to Canal Road and Moccasin Wallow Road.

Over the past year, FMD guided the Board in issuing $60 million in bonds for the next phase of the 44th Avenue extension project to connect Lakewood Ranch to Bradenton. The County is able to issue debt with favorable interest rates thanks to our credit rating being upgraded to Fitch’s prestigious AA+ rating for non-ad valorem debt and a comparable rating by Moody’s at Aa1. Manatee County’s credit ratings are among the strongest in the state.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

Working behind the scenes with internal departments and private sector businesses was our award-winning Procurement Division. Procurement oversees the efficient and transparent process by which the government works with the private sector to obtain goods and services. Last year our procurement team was awarded the National Procurement Institute (NPI) Award and the prestigious Florida Association of Public Procurement Officials (FAPPO) Award.

DIGITAL TOOLS

Financial Management worked with David Morehead in our Property Management Department over the past year to develop a new online tool that allows taxpayers to see exactly where dollars are being spent on infrastructure throughout Manatee County. The new CIP dashboard gives residents a glimpse at local project timelines and budgets while enabling our local government to provide greater transparency to the public than ever before. Explore the Capital Improvement Program interactive dashboard at www.mymanatee.org/cip.

Photo: The Financial Management Department’s Budget and Procurement divisions have both been nationally recognized for their excellence.
The 1,900 public employees who work tirelessly behind the scenes to make our government run smoothly are Manatee County Government’s most valuable resource. The small team in Human Resources helps ensure our employees receive competitive wages, stellar benefits, performance recognition and health benefits that are among the best for public sector employers. Human Resources Director Rodney Barnes retired in 2019 and a nationwide search began to find his replacement. An extensive interview process resulted in the promotion of our longtime trusted Benefits Manager Kim Stroud.

Kim’s track record overseeing the Employee Health Benefits division over the past nine years has resulted in a model of success, known as “Best in Class” for local governments. HR also began offering a vision insurance plan and flexible spending debit card to improve the options and convenience of our health plan.

AT A GLANCE: COUNTY EMPLOYMENT

- 1,900 COUNTY EMPLOYEES
- 300% INCREASE IN INTERNSHIPS OFFERED OVER PAST 3 YEARS
- 20% OF INTERNS GAIN FULLTIME POSITIONS WITH THE COUNTY

HR partnered with Results First Internship Program Coordinator Xavier Colon to promote and enhance the highly successful Results First Internship Program. Interns provide great value to the County while gaining valuable work experience in their fields. We’ve had such success with this program over the past three years that one in five Results First interns is hired to work for us full time. The Results First program helped earn Manatee County Government the very first MVP Employer Award from the Manatee Area Chamber of Commerce. The award was given in recognition of our continued commitment to “recruiting, hiring and retaining young people in our workforce.” Read more about the program at www.mymanatee.org/RFIP.

INTEGRATING TECHNOLOGY

During a busy year, HR Compensation Manager Ashley Burton helped complete and implement the findings from a comprehensive market study called Payscale for a new compensation structure that puts Manatee County on par with public sector employers around the region. HR also launched a new Spark Hire Video Interviewing platform in 2019, giving hiring managers unique new insight for job candidates and shortening the hiring process.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE

HR also leveraged new technology to implement an organization-wide text communication system that allows us to communicate with employees quickly and efficiently in urgent situations. HR Manager Julie Bassett led the County through the transition to Aladtec technology. As a result, we’re now better able to communicate with employees whenever an urgent situation arises. We can now also use the new app to schedule employee shifts when we activate for emergency management situations.
In 2019, Manatee County Public Works rehabilitated five local bridges and made preventative maintenance on 84 County bridges.
If creativity and innovation are the great drivers of production in our government, technology is their enabler. While many of our 1,900 employees work outdoors repairing utility lines, keeping our beaches beautiful and educating children in our nature preserves, many others work in an office relying heavily on computers and telephones to keep our business running smoothly. Behind the scenes is our Information Technology Department, responding to 26,000 service requests over the past year.

Led by Director Paul Alexander, our IT department also helps protect the confidentiality, integrity and availability of our internet, data storage and communication systems. Last year the department and its highly talented team established a new Payment Card Industry (PCI) Compliance Program that helps prevent security threats and cyber-attacks by monitoring, detecting, containing and eliminating threats such as viruses, phishing scams and more. The program also backs up the County’s IT systems and raises security awareness among our employees. These efforts, led by Paul and IT Senior Manager Mike Hotaling, help keep public sector employees safe from cyber attacks and help protect sensitive information of our bill paying customers and others who work with the County.

Outside the secure server rooms and Customer Service call centers that assist our employees, IT also has been busy over the past year bolstering the communications network for first responders in Manatee and Sarasota counties. The P25 radio project, led by IT Manager Willie Miranda, is replacing several aging radio towers and added three new towers to enhance radio coverage in hard-to-communicate locations. When complete in early 2020 the new P25 radio network will give police, paramedics, firefighters and other first responders a far more reliable way to communicate during emergencies each day.

The Learn Your Level - Emergency Information Center application is an interactive map that allows you to easily find your evacuation level, evacuation routes, and view the location and status of the County’s sandbag distribution sites and emergency shelters. A new Road Closures application is an interactive map with current and upcoming road closures around the county. It also offers information about the reason for the closure, the expected duration and suggested detours.

So many people were involved in these projects, but some of the most notable were Rachael Taft, Jeff Pace and Mike Olmstead.
Neighborhood Services

When Manatee County residents have life- or property-threatening emergencies, they call 9-1-1. When our residents have less urgent needs, their first line of help with Manatee County is often our Neighborhood Services Department. Led by new Director Ava Ehde, this department oversees critical County service areas dedicated to seniors, children, veterans and government funding for local health care providers serving the uninsured.

Our Neighborhood Services Administration division is a small team of superstars led by Debbie Deleon who link our messages and services directly to residents through their neighborhood and homeowner associations. The division played a key role in completing Neighborhood Action Plans (NAP) for the Parrish Village and Washington Park neighborhoods, identifying the needs and priorities of each community, along with plans to implement residents’ priorities over time.

In 2019 Neighborhood Services led the community outreach on our Back to the Future initiative, presenting at dozens of local meetings to get citizen input for how our government will respond to a fast-growing community. That effort was led by Simone Peterson, editor of the County’s popular Neighborhood Connections magazine.

HELPING FAMILIES

Human Services Manager Susan Ford led our Children’s Services Advisory Board (CSAB) in responding to a crisis in child adoption dissolutions by funding a multi-agency program that served 96 parents, 165 adopted children and 28 siblings over the past three years with no failed adoptions. Susan put years of grant management experience into overseeing the new Blackbaud software and grants-in-aid process. Our new method rewards agencies that demonstrate evidence-based outcomes rather than simply providing their traditional programming.

Our stellar Public Library System staff helped improve child literacy rates last year by opening a LITtle Discovery Center with games, toys and books for families with small children. Our Libraries staff also helped the Suncoast for Grade-Level Reading Campaign initiative by participating in the Soar in 4 program that offers STEAM activities and collaborating with local partners on the summer Dive Into Reading project.

Under the strong management of Health Care Services Manager Joshua Barnett, the County’s costs per patient have been reduced on consecutive years thanks to improved data collection and patient access to medical care. Joshua and his team have leveraged state and federal dollars to curtail uncompensated care for safety net hospitals while working on solutions to reduce the need for acute behavioral health care in Manatee County.

Manatee County Probation Services Manager Jennifer Burgh and her team implemented a new DETER program that helps first-time DUI defendants stay out of jail by performing service in our Offender Work Program. The Offender Work Program again helped keep non-violent offenders out of jail and reduced the number of County staff to keep up with a larger caseload.

Manatee County’s parks and conservation lands are some of our most incredible local resources and people travel here from across the state to experience their beauty. Those public assets are overseen by a phenomenal Parks and Natural Resources Department, a wide-ranging group that not only keeps our public beaches and natural preserves clean, they also educate the public on the importance of conservation and horticulture, monitor local waterways for pollutants and operate our athletic fields for local sports leagues.

The centerpiece of our public parks system is G.T. Bray Park and Recreation Center where new fitness workshops became regular classes for the Group Fitness Schedule in 2019. Among many other popular offerings was a new “Walk with a Doctor” event where local groups walk along the G.T. Bray Park trail with a local physician who answers questions and provides health tips at no cost.

Another of Parks’ chief responsibilities is ensuring the beaches of Anna Maria Island are replenished with clean, fresh sand whenever they’re eroded by tides and storms. To that end, Parks Director Charlie Hunsicker and his team helped obtain $19 million in state and federal funds for the reconstruction of our beaches. Manatee County obtained another $3.3 million in FEMA funds to repair damages from Hurricanes Hermine and Irma.

Our Parks Department is also overseeing the County’s investment of RESTORE Act funds that are invested in restoring the long-term health of the valuable natural ecosystem and economy of the Gulf Coast region. Last year Parks applied $620,309 toward a coastal watershed program to improve water quality in Manatee County by developing a watershed management plan. That plan will lay out improvements needed for 14 areas of the county which were developed under old flood and drainage standards.

Another $225,000 in RESTORE funds was invested in the Florida Maritime Museum that preserves the maritime heritage of Cortez Village. Parks is also investing $100,000 in RESTORE funds with the Gulf Shellfish Institute’s Sea Farm to Table program by applying research to improve predictability of growth and harvesting of shellfish.

The Environmental Protection Division (EPD), under the leadership of Rob Brown, is leading Manatee County’s response to sea level rise. Throughout 2019 Rob and his team worked with the Tampa Bay Resiliency Coalition to develop a Regional Resiliency Action Plan to update regional sea level rise projections. Local governments throughout the Bay area will use that data to plan for future capital projects and to provide vulnerability analyses.
Monatee County is home to nearly 700 farms and more than 230,000 acres in production agriculture, ranking the county 7th in Florida for agriculture sales.
Property Management

DEPARTMENTS

Manatee County’s Property Management Department is another group of talented behind-the-scenes employees that make us proud of our public facilities. The team at Property Management not only acquires and maintains County buildings, they’re also responsible for much of our new construction of public facilities. They play a critical role in the projects being built with the voter-approved Half Cent sales tax for infrastructure. And few individuals could have kept those projects moving as quickly and efficiently as Director Charlie Bishop. Here’s just a handful of the high-visibility projects Property Management had the lead role in completing:

- Blackstone Park received new dugouts, an upgraded skate park and a concession stand with restrooms at both the soccer and softball fields.
- New lifeguard towers are now being installed at our public beaches, one of the most needed public safety projects from our Infrastructure Sales Tax.
- G.T. Bray Park, Manatee County’s most popular public park, received a renovated skate park along with new lighting on its football and practice soccer fields. Bray’s dog park also expanded and was renamed in honor of longtime pet advocate Laurie Crawford.
- After County Commissioners approved the purchase of a former Red Cross facility in Lakewood Ranch, Property Management began renovation to convert the building into a 24-hour EMS facility to improve response times in one of our fastest-growing population centers.
- The County’s popular Downtown Cat Town was relocated to a more spacious building one mile east. The new adoption facility is a new, larger home with indoor and outdoor areas for adoptable cats and kittens to walk.

INSPIRING PARTNERSHIPS

Charlie and Parks Operations Manager Carmine DeMilio were at the center of one of our most inspiring successes of 2019. Together they helped forge a unique partnership with local non-profits to put unemployed adults to work with County jobs. Under the program, the County hires disabled/disadvantaged adults to fill high-turnover positions.

Property Management worked with Turning Points and the Easter Seals to employ adults in keeping our beaches and parks clean throughout the week. Florida Department of Economic Opportunity designated Carmine as a Florida Unique Abilities Partner in 2019.

INNOVATION AND TECHNOLOGY

No less inspiring was the story of Property Management GIS Analyst Lea Harper organizing a countywide supply drive for victims of Hurricane Dorian. In a span of two weeks, Lea organized the supply drive that resulted in 10 pallets of clothes, tools, food and other sorely needed supplies being delivered to impacted residents of the Bahamas. Lea is also responsible for our popular new Breezin’ Through Manatee app (www.mymanatee.org/explore) that allows visitors to explore outdoor parks, preserves and other outdoor amenities across Manatee County.
Manatee County Public Safety Department has long been recognized as our front-line heroes who are first to respond to our residents in an emergency. The past year was one of substantial change for Public Safety, but the department’s stellar reputation continued to shine in Manatee County. Each of the department’s five divisions achieved considerable success thanks to a cohesive group of division chiefs who represent us well.

The largest group within Public Safety was also the division that succeeded in spite of significant changes at the highest levels of the department. In April, Director Bob Smith announced his departure and the leadership role was quickly transferred to Public Safety veteran Jake Saur. Jake’s longevity with the County and his background as an EMT and later as chief of our Emergency Communications Center gave him a unique perspective on the department’s day-to-day operations.

Public Safety also streamlined its ability to provide pre-hospital care by merging the Community Paramedicine Division into Emergency Medical Services, creating a team that encompasses lifesaving emergency care with additional patient oversight and treatment. With the merger, James Crutchfield was named the new Chief of EMS, a result of his strong leadership as Community Paramedicine Chief in prior years.

Steve Litschauer was promoted as the new Emergency Management Chief overseeing a team tasked with disaster preparedness and response in an ever-changing climate. Chief Litschauer showed great leadership during preparations for Hurricane Dorian and his small, can-do division was busy the remainder of the year raising community awareness on the importance of storm preparation. Chief Litschauer also added Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training to its list of offerings to the community in 2019.

PROTECTING OUR PETS

Animal Services Chief Sarah Brown has brought calm, steady leadership to one of the most prominent areas of our Public Safety Department, Manatee County Animal Services (MCAS). Last year MCAS worked with volunteers and partner agencies throughout the year to meet the Board’s stated goal of a 95 percent save rate for healthy, adoptable animals and achieved “No Kill” shelter status for the second year in a row. MCAS’s fifth annual Adopt-a-Palooza attracted a record 3,000 people to the area’s largest adoption event. The highlight of the year for MCAS was the decision by County Commissioners to approve funding for a new animal shelter to replace our aging, overpopulated facility in Palmetto.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNICATIONS

Our Emergency Communications Center (ECC) was the first in the nation to implement two cloud-based CAD systems, continuing to be a national leader on Next Generation 9-1-1 service that is transforming the method and speed with which we can respond to residents in need. ECC installed a product known as Rapid SOS, enabling our call takers to track the precise location of cell phone callers to within two meters. Interim ECC Chief Stacy Needham has worked hard over the past six months to ready the Communications Center to welcome our new 3-1-1 call center launching in 2020.
Public Works

From the roads and bridges we travel on to the stormwater systems that help rainwater recede more quickly, maybe no other County department is at the forefront of a growing community’s needs than our Public Works team. And though local roads are most important to many County residents, it’s our major thoroughfares that receive the most attention because they carry the most traffic.

Over the past year Director Chad Butzow led Manatee County Public Works on the continued design and construction of the 44th Avenue Extension Project that will connect Lakewood Ranch and east Manatee to west Bradenton. Our professional Public Works traffic engineers completed the design for a critical new bridge for 44th Avenue that will soon cross the Braden River. Public Works also completed the 45th Street East link connecting 44th to State Road 70, marking a significant link between two major east-west corridors.

The same traffic engineers began design work on significant roadway improvements in north Manatee County, including the expansion of Moccasin Wallow Road from U.S. 41 to Interstate 75; the widening of Canal Road from U.S. 301 to U.S. 41; and improvements to 60th Avenue East from U.S. 301 to Mendoza Road. Public Works also installed improvements along 121st Avenue East to accommodate new traffic from the Parrish Community High School. At the forefront of these efforts to create transportation solutions in our fastest growing areas are Public Works Deputy Directors Sia Mullanazar and Clarke Davis.

STORMWATER IMPROVEMENTS

Chad Butzow also led County Commissioners through many months of workshops detailing our stormwater utility system. By the summer, Commissioners agreed that improvements are needed to the stormwater utility in order to address local flooding and water quality issues. By the fall, we embarked on a public outreach campaign to educate Manatee County residents on the importance of the stormwater utility and the need to upgrade it.

County Commissioners will look at how to fund those improvements over the next 18 months, but short-term enhancements are coming more quickly. To that end, our Public Works team in 2019 also began a substantial stormwater improvement and parking lot expansion at Coquina Beach, our most popular public beach.

NEW TRANSIT TECHNOLOGY

Our Manatee County Area Transit division delivered more than 1.4 million passengers to their destinations last year, many of whom used new mobile applications to make their ride easier. MCAT’s new mobile ticketing program allows passengers to buy a bus pass from their cell phones and other wireless devices. The new free myStop Mobile app shows passengers exactly where their bus is in route to their bus stop. These great advancements are the result of innovators like MCAT Manager William Steele and Ryan Suarez, our MCAT Planning Section Manager.

Port Manatee adds more than $2.3 billion dollars annually in regional economic impact.
With low unemployment rates, booming home sales and record-breaking tourism numbers, Manatee County's economy is barreling into 2020. Helping to make sure investors know about the boundless opportunities in all areas of the County is our Redevelopment and Economic Opportunity (REO) Department. Now in its third year, REO has taken the lead role in attracting new business opportunities in our Southwest District.

REO Director Geri Lopez and Karen Stewart, the County's Economic Development official and its newest Deputy County Administrator, worked closely on a new five-year Southwest District Strategic Plan that paves the way for Commissioners to invest in some of our oldest areas with a $14.7 million budget for FY20 and over $26 million in projected revenues over the next five years. REO also led the County's effort to complete the Northwest County Plan that outlines recommendations for attracting businesses to the area around Port Manatee.

Geri worked with Community Development Manager Denise Thomas to apply the new Livable Manatee incentives to create affordable single-family homes. Under the new program, Commissioners funded nearly $300,000 in impact fees for 20 houses that are now homes to very low, low- and moderate-income families. REO also played a role in the 884 affordable rental units and another 72 single-family homes now in the development pipeline.

Karen Stewart worked with eight new and existing businesses to obtain County Commissioners approval for economic incentive grants that will result in 563 new quality jobs here over time. Those jobs will pay an average wage of $65,549 and result in $32.9 million in capital investment over the next five years, all right here in Manatee County.

Karen also led the Board in amending its economic incentive package to include the new Inclusive Manatee Initiative aimed at providing new opportunities for disadvantaged residents. A pilot project in Samoset helps connect unemployed residents to jobs, aiming to lower neighborhood unemployment and increase median income by 2022. A separate addition to the Board’s Economic Development Incentive package provides a local hiring bonus and payment for transportation impact fees and facility investment fees for companies that expand jobs and invest in capital improvements.
Utilities

Water quality issues and potential environmental impacts permeated the news in 2019. Manatee County Utilities Department prides itself on taking a proactive role in the treatment of local water, and in 2019 finalized projects to enhance water quality and to reduce chemical and nutrient contribution to surface water bodies under the strong leadership of Director Mike Gore.

Utilities Deputy Director Mark Simpson oversaw the creation of a new biological treatment facility that uses biological organisms to treat surface water before any chemical treatment takes place. This innovative new ultrafiltration process reduces the amount of chemicals necessary to bring the surface water to drinking quality standards.

Deputy Director Jeff Goodwin improved our wastewater treatment process to reduce the amount of wastewater that’s disposed of during the wet weather season. Additional disposal capabilities — storage — of treated wastewater were brought online during the year, greatly reducing the need to discharge nutrient-laden water into surface water bodies. These process improvements are long-term solutions to improve local water quality that should give residents confidence that Manatee County takes water quality seriously.

CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

Manatee County Utilities also took steps to protect bill-paying customers in 2019 by rolling out new enhanced security measures for online transactions. Our Utilities team worked with IT to ensure that all policies and procedures were in strict compliance with Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard. This ensures the very best protection of our customers’ information.

While those changes were done behind the scenes, updates to the website and additional payment options were put in place for the customers to enjoy a more user-friendly experience in dealing with Manatee County Utilities. These are just a few examples of how the utility department strives to continually enhance the customer’s experience.

SUSTAINABILITY

The Utilities leadership group continued to evaluate our water and wastewater infrastructure and to plan for 2020 and beyond. Their findings confirmed that the overall condition of our utility is good. The Utilities team will continue to work on regular maintenance, repair and upgrades.
