IN THEIR OWN WORDS

The Science of Addiction

Addiction, Reentry and Recidivism

11:30 AM – 1:00 PM

11:30 AM – 1:00 PM

MARY JEANNE KREEK, MD, is the Patrick E. and Beatrice M. Haggerty Professor and Head of the Laboratory of the Biology of Addictive Diseases at The Rockefeller University and Senior Physician at The Rockefeller University Hospital in New York.

One of the world's foremost scientists in addiction research, Dr. Kreek is internationally renowned for her pioneering work in the development of methadone maintenance therapy for heroin addicts in the 1960s. She was one of the first scientists to document that drugs of abuse significantly alter the expression of specific genes in the brain, which result in changes in behavior. Currently, her research focuses on opiate addiction, cocaine dependency, and alcoholism.

Dr. Kreek will be introduced by Sarasota County Sheriff Tom Knight.

The Price of Addiction

Her research interests—corrections, criminal justice, reentry preparation and substance abuse—stem, in part, from personal experiences.

Nationally distinguished for her unaffected, soul-baring lectures to Twelve Step audiences, Ms. Dwyer was convicted of DUI Manslaughter in 1996 and spent five years in prison. She has been involved in a Twelve Step Recovery Community for 19 years and has been invited to tell her story in 14 states and the UK.

Ms. Dwyer will be introduced by Melissa Larkin-Skinner, Chief Clinical Officer, Centerstone Florida.
