Please respond to gassie

Manatee County Commissioners,

Just to reassure you that your approving backyard chickens for Manatee County is not unusual or radical. And that there will also be support services here, as in Pinellas County, available to residents in addition to the merchants who sell them the chickens and supplies.

Pinellas to hold workshop on raising chickens in backyard

PINELLAS

Last Updated: Tuesday, April 16, 2013

LARGO -

The Pinellas County Extension Service wants to teach you how to raise chickens in your backyard.

It has been legal for more than a year in Pinellas County to raise chickens, and the extension service is holding a workshop on how to do it right Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the Weedon Island Preserve Education Center. The cost $10 per family.

The workshop will address the fundamentals of raising chickens in Pinellas County. Dr. Robert Kluson, extension agent with Agriculture and Natural Resources at Sarasota County Extension, and other experts will discuss local regulations, housing, health issues and nutrition of backyard chickens.

Pinellas regulations allow four chickens per resident in unincorporated areas. Coops cannot be visible from adjoining properties or streets.

To register for the Chickens 101 workshop, call Weedon Island Preserve at 727-453-6500. Advance registration is required because seating is limited.

Dear Women:

I'm so proud of you for voting against an ordinance allowing backyard chickens. Apparently the other four commissioners have no idea of what it's like to live in a ghetto.

The barking dogs, loud music and smokey fires are enough to drive one nuts without allowing chickens into the picture. Please continue to oppose this nonsense. It'll only ruin the neighborhoods more than they already are.

If you could concentrate on the noise and smokey fires, instituting tougher laws against these issues it would be so helpful. I'm a peace loving person who would like to be able to breathe fresh air again.

Commissioner Chappie,

I support the proposal to keep a small number of chickens, no roosters, in urban areas of the county. Could you please tell me the current status of that proposal?

Thank you in advance for your assistance, and for your support of this proposal.

Dear Mr Bustle

I have been following the developments concerning the zoning changes to allow chickens in the un- incorporated areas of the county. I am all for it for many reasons. Fresh eggs taste better and are free of god knows what is in commercial eggs. In this economy folks are having difficulty feeding their families. It would be a good option. It would also ,in my opinion, teach our children an additional way they can provide for themselves and teach them responsibility.

We are allowed to have reptiles, insects, pit bulls among other dangerous and not so appealing things as pets. I fail to see the reason behind banning egg producing chickens. They are beneficial to menacing insects, make good pets and an excellent food source. Many surrounding counties, and more affluent areas have come to see that this is not a way to open doors for suburban farms or a way to make a path for back yard swine or bovine raising. It is simply an additional way to help ourselves in these challenging times.
